During the Sesquicentennial year those of us who worked on the celebration often paused to reflect on Wesleyan's many benefactors whose leadership and generosity brought the College to its 150th anniversary. When the new campus was built in 1928, many of those "heroes and heroines" of Wesleyan were honored as their names were given to the beautiful Georgian buildings on the Rivoli campus.

Beginning with this issue, we shall feature each one of those benefactors and the contribution they made to Wesleyan. Since Taylor Hall is receiving so much attention with its $1.2 million renovation, our first "hero" to be highlighted is Robert Jenks Taylor. After reading his story, you will know why his name graces one of our academic buildings.

Also in this issue I want to announce the beginning of a "Letters to the Editor" column. I shall try to run brief letters from alumnae that deal with concerns of Wesleyan that are of special interest to all. Please write!

I urge all of you to read the letter on page 17 about the alumnae career contact file Wesleyan is establishing to help our graduates as they plan their careers. We can't have this file without your help! Our alumnae are our greatest resource.

Wesleyan's Heroes and Heroines

In 1865, confederate dollars were worth more as paper than money, the state of Georgia was devastated by Sherman's destruction, and 40,000 of Georgia's young men were dead or lost in the war. Robert Jenks Taylor was only 11 years old in 1865, but it was then that he learned the value of hard work. The lessons he learned in the post-war South were to stay with him throughout his lifetime. His philosophy was expressed very clearly in 1920 when writing the policies for the Lamar Rankin Drug Company he said, "Work is a blessing and not a curse."

R. J. Taylor was born in Hawkinsville, GA on June 15, 1854. He was the first child of Ezekiel Henry and Sarah Augusta Taylor. His father and grandfather were doctors and, as a boy, Mr. Taylor dreamed of a career in medicine. The Civil War was to deny him the education he needed to become a physician, but it didn't dampen his ambition.

"He was a great friend of Wesleyan. Mr. Taylor gave of his means to Wesleyan. . . and had her in his heart till the very end."

Dr. Dice R. Anderson

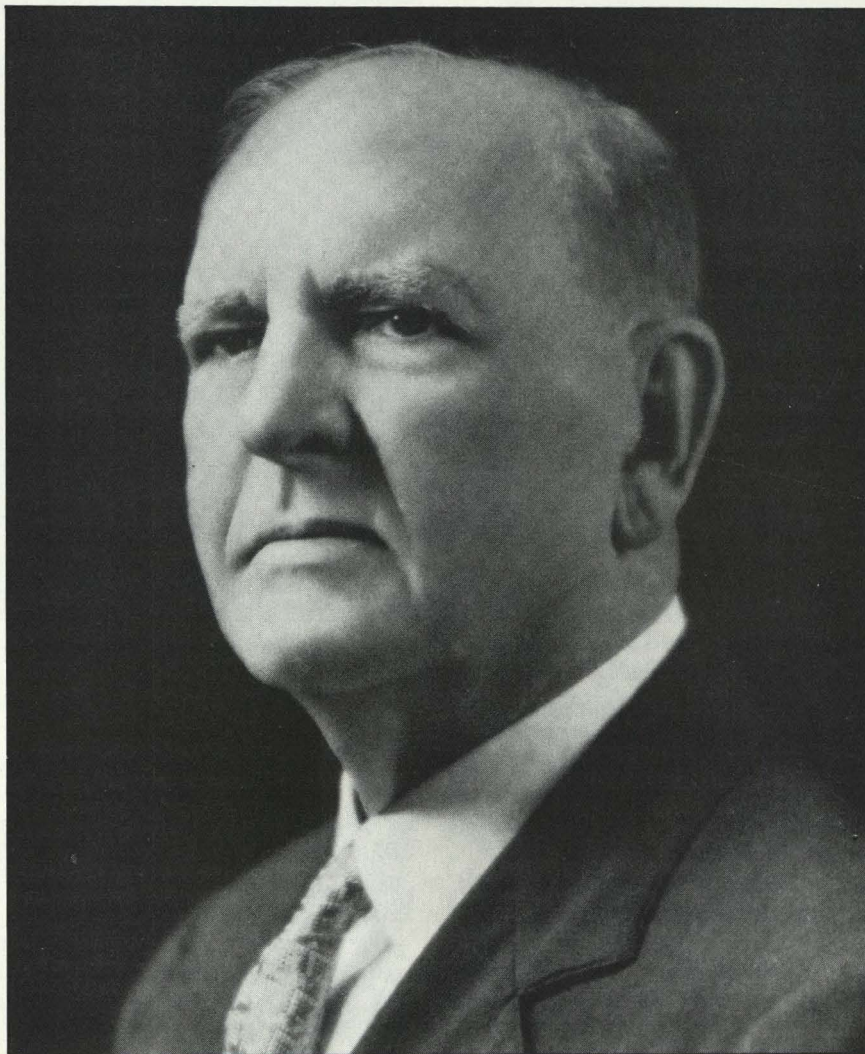

At age 18 he went to work as a clerk in his uncle's drugstore earning $145.00 the first year. He was an excellent clerk and as his salary rose steadily he began to look for his own business opportunity. With his savings of $215.00 he started in the grocery business, and in 1879 he organized the Taylor and Jenks Drug Company.

He came to Macon in 1889 to manage the Southern Phosphate Works, a fertilizer plant of which he eventually became president. In 1891 he helped organize the American National Bank. In 1901 he was elected vice-president of that bank and he became the president four years later. In 1911 he was named president of Continental Trust Company. In addition to his banking interest, he was president and chairman of the finance committees of two drug houses. It has been said that Mr. Taylor "had a finger in every business in his section of the state, except real estate."

Mr. Taylor's lack of education strengthened his respect for learning and he gave generously of his money, and of his gift for managing, conciliating and getting things done in the field of education. His four daughters attended Wesleyan and Mr. Taylor became one of the great benefactors of the College.

In 1923 he advanced $100,000 to the Wesleyan Board of Trustees which enabled the school to restore its accredited standing. In 1938, when Wesleyan was sold to the Bondholder's Protective Committee, Mr. Taylor chaired the Wesleyan Corporation that launched a campaign for the repurchase of Wesleyan's properties. The campaign was successful and in 1939 the Corporation achieved legal satisfaction of Wesleyan's debt.

Robert Jenks Taylor

Dr. Dice R. Anderson, president of the college during those years of financial crisis, said of Mr. Taylor, "He was a great friend of Wesleyan. His growing grasp of the real aim of the college and his increasing understanding of college problems were a source of amazement to me. Mr. Taylor gave of his means to Wesleyan, directed his great business talents to the interests of this college, and had her in his heart till the very end." Robert Jenks Taylor died on November 30, 1939 at the age of 85.

"Cabin Fever" Hits Campus

"We've got Cabin Fever!"

Do you remember singing songs around the campfire and popcorn parties by the fireplace? For 43 years Anderson Cabin was a focal point of student activities at Wesleyan. It was a special place with a "get-away-from-it-all" feeling.

Today, almost 50 years after it was built, the cabin is no longer safe for parties and picnics and the time has come to either restore it or tear it down. The students have declared they've got a bad case of "cabin fever" and they want to see the cabin rebuilt.

On February 28th, the Wesleyan Parents' Club met and officially adopted the project which will cost between $20,000 and $25,000. The Parents' Club plans to raise funds by "selling logs" for $50.00 each.

The cabin was built in 1938 by the campus YWCA and was named the Dice R. Anderson Cabin in honor of Wesleyan's president at that time. Hopefully the rustic rock fireplace and chimney from the original cabin will be preserved and a new cabin will be built around them.

Wesleyan students will share in the excitement every step of the way. For each log that is purchased in a student's name, that student will receive a Tootsie Roll in her mailbox.

Once again, "cabin fever" has hit the Wesleyan campus and we can look forward to lots more fun at Anderson Cabin!

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Recently I was an alternate lay delegate to the Annual South Georgia Conference held on Wesleyan's campus. As I sat in Porter Auditorium for the sessions, I realized that in that room were representatives from 704 Methodist churches in the South Georgia Conference. There must be many young Methodist women graduating from high school within the boundaries of this Conference whose lives would be enhanced by coming to Wesleyan.

My letter is a plea to other Methodist alumnae to speak to the young women in your local churches and encourage them to consider Wesleyan as a college of choice. Wesleyan has made an effort to strengthen its ties with the Church in recent years. Scholarships and financial aid are available.

Reflect on the influence Wesleyan had on your life, and work to bring this valuable experience to others. Wesleyan needs students, and these young women need Wesleyan!

Sincerely yours,
Eleanor Adams Lane '58

Gifts at Work

The Grace Laramore Hightower Chair of Music

Grace Laramore Hightower

In February of this year, Mr. Julian Hightower, civic, industrial and religious leader, established the Grace Laramore Hightower Chair of Music in honor of his wife.

In 1980, Wesleyan granted highest honors to Grace Laramore Hightower '20 by awarding her the honorary Doctor of Humane Letters in recognition of her distinguished service to the arts. Mrs. Hightower earned both the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Music degrees from Wesleyan. A talented musician, she has helped further the education of young singers and others training in the arts by personally financing and procuring grants and fellowships for them.

She has served on the boards of the Fine Arts Foundation in Atlanta, Atlanta Symphony, Atlanta Opera Guild and as membership chairman for the Southeastern States of the National Council of the Metropolitan Opera.

Dedicated to serving her alma mater, she received the Alumnae Association Award for Distinguished Service to Wesleyan in 1974. She was elected Alumnae Trustee in 1949 and Trustee at Large in 1951. She served as general chairman of the renovation of Candler Alumnae Center.

She and her husband are among the outstanding benefactors in Wesleyan's long and distinguished history. Hightower Dormitory, built in 1963, was named in honor of these two great friends of the College. Their generous gifts have benefited both students and alumnae. The Steinway grand piano in the Oval Hall was a gift from the Hightowers. In establishing the Grace Laramore Hightower Chair, generations of music students will have the opportunity to study with the talented and gifted musicians that the chair will provide.

Editor's Note: On June 5, Mr. Hightower died after a brief illness.

Emma Gaillard Boyce

The Emma Gaillard Boyce Music Prize and The Emma Gaillard Boyce Scholarship

In 1986 David G. Boyce established an endowment fund in memory of his mother, Emma Gaillard Boyce '12. The proceeds from this memorial have resulted in two awards — The Emma Gaillard Boyce Music Prize, a cash prize awarded annually to the graduating senior who has made the most outstanding contribution to the life of Wesleyan College in the area of music; and The Emma Gaillard Boyce Scholarship, awarded annually to a promising student in the field of music.

Emma Gaillard Boyce grew up in Spalding County, GA. She graduated from Wesleyan in 1912. After college, she wore many different hats — graduate student, college faculty member, department head, music consultant, minister's wife and mother. Across all these busy years, she always tried to find time to give individual instruction in voice and piano. Her students came from all walks of life, from pre-teens to grandmothers. She challenged each one to excel.

"None of her pupils ever became concert pianists, operatic performers or rock stars," said her son, David Boyce of Riviera Beach, FL. "But their cards and letters and phone calls never stopped coming in up until the very day of her death, expressing their gratitude and thanks for her encouragement and her caring and for making life a little more meaningful by unlocking a magical door that would allow them to walk into that land of enchantment called music."

John A. Wilson

The John A. Wilson Scholarship

In memory of her husband, who loved students and their zest for learning, Marian Roberts Wilson '44 established the John A. Wilson Scholarship in June of 1986. It is awarded to a degree-seeking student enrolled in the Center for Continuing Studies, the adult degree program designed for women past the traditional college age.

Mr. Wilson was a man of the sea. Raised on Sapelo Island, GA, he built and operated his own boat marina on St. Simons Island. In later years, he built and was captain of the research vessel for Emory University. For over 10 years, he shared his knowledge with hundreds of students who were earning their Master's and Ph.D. degrees "but he always said he learned more than his students," said Mrs. Wilson. After Mr. Wilson's death, no one could be found to take over his responsibilities at Emory and the program was discontinued.

The John A. Wilson Scholarship is a tribute to a man who valued higher education. The 1987 recipient is Mrs. Linda Eubanks, a junior majoring in Middle Grades Education.

Dr. Ethel Cullinan Named Academic Dean

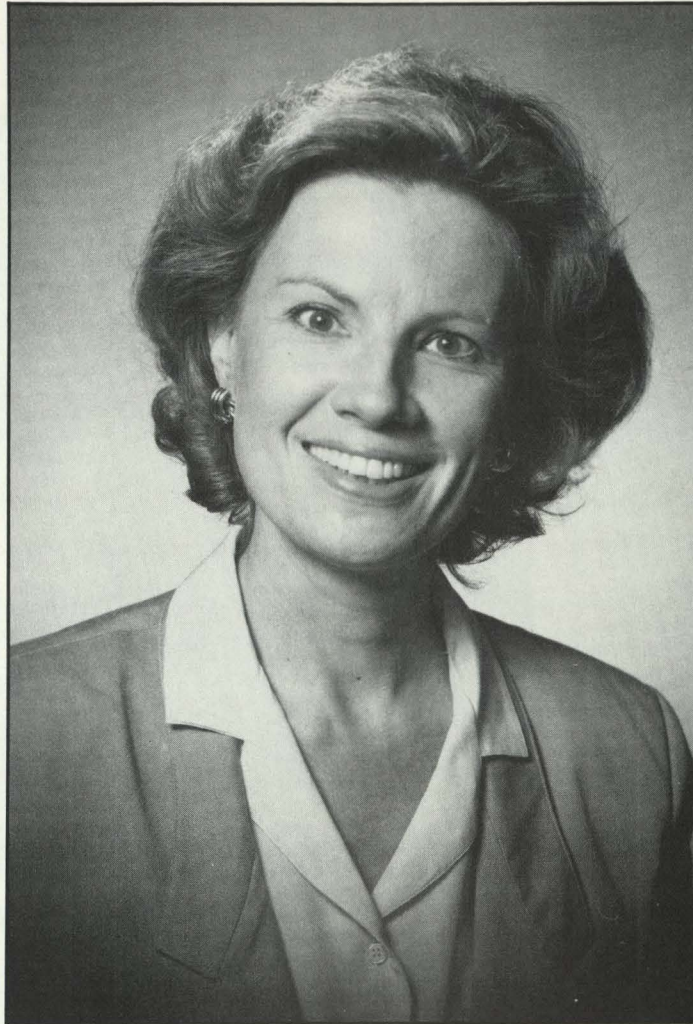

Dr. Ethel A. Cullinan has been named Dean of Wesleyan College. She is currently the Associate Dean of the Walter F. George School of Law, Mercer University, on leave from her position as Associate Professor of Political Science at Macon Junior College. She will take office at Wesleyan on August 3. Dr. Cullinan also will have faculty status as Professor of Political Science.

Dr. Priscilla Danheiser, Assistant Dean and Registrar, will serve as the Interim Dean until Dr. Cullinan takes office.

Dr. Cullinan earned the B.A. degree in 1967 from Connecticut College for Women in New London, CT. In 1969 she earned the M.A. degree in Public Administration, American Government, from the University of Florida in Gainesville, FL. Her thesis was titled "The Relationship Between Socio-Economic and Political Variables to the Outputs of an Administrative Agency."

She earned the Ph.D. degree in 1975, also from the University of Florida, in Latin American Politics, Public Administration and American Federal Relations. Her dissertation was "Comparative Political Socialization: Venezuela, Columbia, Costa Rica and the United States." She was one of two women with twenty males in the program.

Dr. Cullinan was employed from 1967-1968 as a management analyst at the Library of Congress where she acquired skills in program and personnel evaluation.

Following her work on her master's degree, she returned to Washington in 1971 as a special assistant to the Secretary General for Administration and Management at the Organization of American States.

She married Neil M. Cullinan, Ph.D. and they moved to Middle Georgia. From 1972 to 1974, she was Assistant Professor of Political Science at Albany State College in Albany, GA. It was here that she gained valuable experience that provided her with insights into the special needs of minority students.

In 1974 Dr. Cullinan joined the faculty of Macon Junior College as Associate Professor of Political Science. She was responsible for the creation and implementation of the Public Management Certificate Degree Program which provides the opportunity for mid-level public employees to earn a two-year certificate. She served as chair of the Internship Committee and the faculty-elected Executive Committee during the formulation of the college's Retrenchment Policy. She also was chair of the University of Georgia Regents Advisory Committee on Political Science and was Vice President and President of the Georgia Political Science Association.

In the summer of 1985, Dr. Cullinan was a Fulbright Hayes Fellow to India, where she studied the role of women and social change in a third world nation. She produced a set of five video programs that are available to colleges and universities.

Dr. Cullinan became the Associate Dean of the Walter F. George School of Law in the fall of 1986.

She is a member of the League of Women Voters, Macon Council on World Affairs, Career Women's Network and Networking for Women in Business.

Retiring Faculty Taught a Total of 80 Years

Three faculty members, who represent a total of 80 years of service to Wesleyan, retired in May.

Herbert Herrington, professor of music, retired at the end of his 39th year at Wesleyan. He came to Wesleyan as an instructor of piano and organ in 1948, but his association with the College did not begin then. Mr. Herrington is a graduate of the Wesleyan Conservatory where he earned the Bachelor of Music degree in piano in 1945 and the Bachelor of Music degree in organ in 1946. He earned the Master of Music degree at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago.

Mr. Herrington says his years at Wesleyan have been "wonderful" and he never even considered going anywhere else. "I am a Maconite," he said, "my roots are here." The "roots" he speaks of go back to 1861 when his great-grandfather came to Macon to manufacture ammunition for the Confederacy.

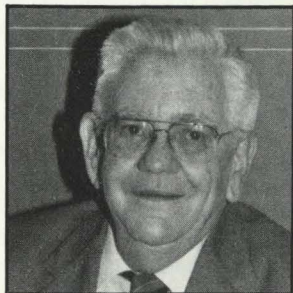

In addition to teaching at Wesleyan, Mr.

Herrington was organist and choirmaster at St. Paul's Episcopal Church for 40 years. He retired from there four years ago. In 1975 he retired after 30 years as organist and choirmaster at Temple Beth Israel. He also served for three terms as the Dean of the American Guild of Organists.

After his retirement, Mr. Herrington will "sit and rock" for a short time and then do a great deal of traveling. He has visited nearly all of the European countries and has seen all 26 medieval cathedrals in England. His favorite European countries are England, Scotland and Switzerland. He plans to spend more time there and to see more English churches.

Herbert Herrington

Mr. Herrington says he's had some wonderful colleagues at Wesleyan and some wonderful students. "They've kept me young in thought," he said, and added that even in retirement he won't be far from Wesleyan, "I live just one mile away!"

Dr. Leah A. Strong, Chairman of the Humanities Division and Banks Professor of American Studies and United States Language and Literature, retired after 31 years in the teaching profession — 26 of those years at Wesleyan. When asked about spending that many years in one job, Dr. Strong replied, "Every year was different; there were always new students and the courses were always revised and updated. It never got to be routine."

Dr. Strong earned the A.B. degree from Allegheny College, the A.M. degree from Cornell University and the Ph.D. degree from Syracuse University. She is a member of the American Studies Association, the Modern Language Association, the South Atlantic Modern Language Association, Popular Culture in the South, the Southeastern American Studies Association and the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. She has written many articles and is the author of a book entitled, Joseph Hopkins Twitchell, Mark Twain's Friend and Pastor.

After her retirement, Dr. Strong will move to Sarasota, FL where she looks forward to reading books "for no reason," being near the water and becoming involved in a variety of volunteer activities. Dr. Strong is a national officer in the Coast Guard Auxiliary and, among other things, will teach a course in recreational boating safety.

Dr. Strong says she has enjoyed her years at Wesleyan and she spoke about teaching as being at the center of her life. "Whenever people ask me what I teach,

Dean McMinn Leaves Wesleyan After 10 Years

After a decade at Wesleyan, Kayron McMinn has resigned as Dean and will move to Columbus following her marriage in June. Dean McMinn has been at Wesleyan for 3 years as Associate Professor of History before being named Dean of the College. Recognized by the faculty as an advocate for faculty concerns, she was instrumental in restricting and focusing the curriculum, most recently the reorganization of the curriculum for the program in business administration. She instituted the Center for Continuing Studies, the degree program for women past the traditional college age. In 1981 she was chosen for Leadership Macon and in 1985 she was chosen for Leadership Georgia.

as corny as it sounds, I always want to answer 'students.' The students seem much more important to me than specific facts.

Dr. Leah Strong

"I'll miss being a classroom teacher because that's where I'm at home," she added, "but there are other things I want to try and other things I want to do. I am genuinely looking forward to my retirement."

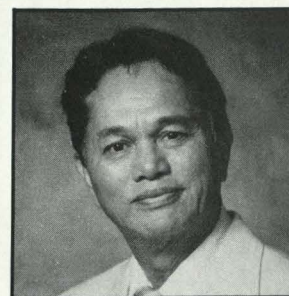

Dr. Jacob S. Quiambao, Manget Professor of Philosophy, Religion and Missions and Chairman of the Department of Religion and Philosophy, came to Wesleyan in 1972. His records indicate that in his fifteen years here, he taught 2,363 students.

Dr. Quiambao, a native of the Philippines and a naturalized citizen, earned the L.L.B. degree at the University of the Philippines, the B.D. degree at Garrett Theological Seminary, the M.A. degree at Northwestern University and the Th.D. degree at Boston University. Prior to coming to Wesleyan, he was President of Union Theological Seminary in Manila. Dr. Quiambao has been an ordained minister for 37 years. In May he also retired from the United Methodist Church.

Following his retirement, Dr. Quiambao will tour Europe for six weeks with his wife, Ermeline, who also retired this spring. She was a professor of sociology at Mercer University. Dr. Quiambao's retirement plans include a lot of reading some writing. He will continue to do volunteer work in the community and has just accepted a position on the Board of Directors of the Middle Georgia Girl Scout Council. He also serves on the Macon Council on World Affairs and on the Executive Committee of the Family Counseling Center.

Dr. Quiambao has always been a favorite of Wesleyan students and in a recent note to him, Senior Laura Reid spoke for all of us saying, "It's impossible to put into words how much you mean to this school and its students. I know that I can speak on behalf of Wesleyan in being eternally grateful for your infinite support over the years. You will be greatly missed but fondly remembered."

Alumnae Weekend 1987 - "151

Alumnae Weekend 1987 may well be remembered for its cold, blustery wind. But aside from the cancellation of some outdoor sports activities, the weekend proved to be enjoyable for all. Alumnae stayed busy visiting with old friends and making new ones and there was a large variety of entertainment available to suit everyone's taste.

At midday on Friday, the lobby of the Olive Swann Porter building was filled with the conversation of alumnae registering for the weekend and the Golden Belles who had arrived for the annual luncheon.

Later that afternoon, Carroll Boyd Wadlow '28 displayed her colorful quilt collection in the Hinton Lounge. She was on hand to explain the origins, designs and quilting methods used to create the unusual quilts. One Macon alumna was so enthusiastic about the exhibit and her conversation with Mrs. Wadlow that she hurried home and brought back her quilt to show to Mrs. Wadlow.

Friday evening was spent at a reception at the historic Hay House, with entertainment by a group of male Wesleyan alumni. Following the reception, reunion class parties were hosted by Macon alumnae.

On Saturday morning, a few alumnae braved the cold winds to walk and jog on the fitness track around Foster Lake. Reunion class meetings were held all over campus. At 11:00 a.m. the Alumnae Association Annual meeting was called to order. Six alumnae received awards for their achievements and service to their communities, professions, churches and to Wesleyan. They are Frances Oehmig Collins '47 of Atlanta, GA, Distinguished Service to Church; Betty Turner Corn '47 of Columbus, GA, Distinguished Service to Community; Sandra Deer '62 of Atlanta, GA, Ruth White Fruit '54 of Tucker, GA, and Betsy Chipman Kaplan '48 of Miami, FL, Distinguished Achievement; and Martha Bradford Swann '47 of Macon, Distinguished Service to Wesleyan.

The Scholarship for Leadership was awarded to Debbie Stevens of Huntsville, AL. A rising junior, she is Senate Vice President and treasurer of the College Republicans. A Wesleyan Student Hostess and a Student Admissions Representative, she organized the taping of Wesleyan students for Good Morning America during the College's sesquicentennial year.

Two surprise announcements, unknown to the honorees, were made at the meeting. Dr. Jacob Quiambao, who retired at the end of May as Manget Professor of Philosophy, Religion and Missions, learned that some of his former students had established a scholarship fund in his name to be awarded to a rising sophomore, junior or senior who is majoring in religion, sociology, psychology, health related sciences or education.

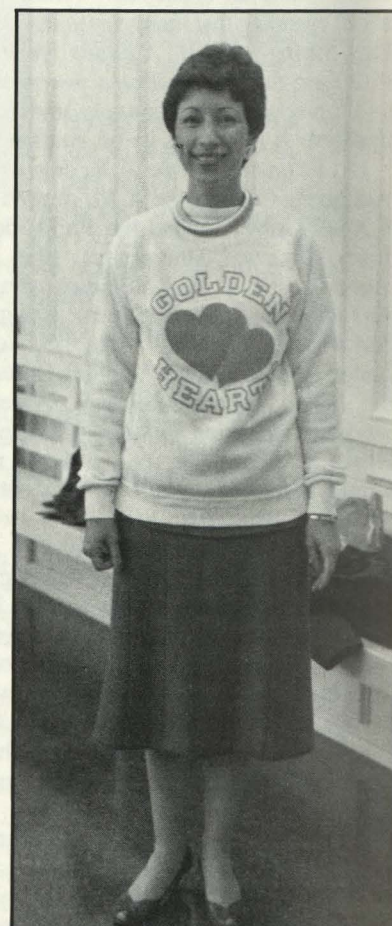

The second surprise came when Dean Kayron McMinn, who has resigned and was married in June, was made an honorary alumna of the Golden Heart Class of 1987.

Resolutions from the Alumnae Association were read for the three retiring faculty members, Dr. Quiambao, Herbert Herrington and Dr. Leah Strong.

Affairs, and Ruth Austin Knox '75, President of the Alumnae Association, unveiled the sesquicentennial plaque that lists the names of all the donors from the Sesquicentennial Club.

Following the meeting, there was a luncheon in Anderson Dining Hall. The afternoon was spent touring historic Macon and The Equestrian Center, viewing the quilt show and catching up on each other's activities.

That evening, dinner in Anderson Dining Hall was accompanied by entertainment by former and current members of The Washboard Band. After dinner, reunion class parties were held for some classes while other alumnae attended the Student Spring Weekend Dance at Idle Hour Country Club.

Alumnae Weekend 1987 came to a close with a chapel service in the Burden Parlor conducted by Dr. J. Frederick Wilson.

Dean Kayron McMinn announces the establishment of a scholarship in honor of Dr. Jacob Quiambao, retired Manget Professor of Philosophy, Religion and Missions. Former students of Dr. Quiambao set up the scholarship fund.

The members of the Class of 1987 become alumnae.

Entertainment on Friday evening was provided by a group of male Wesleyan alumni.

Visiting with friends is one of the most important parts of the reunion weekend.

Members of the Class of '37 Become Golden Belles

On Friday, April 3, 30 members of the Class of 1937 celebrated their 50th anniversary reunion at the Golden Belles luncheon during Alumnae Weekend. They and 83 other Golden Belles were met at the door of Anderson Dining Hall by members of the Alumnae Affairs Office who gave them each a corsage of purple and gold. President Robert K. Six Outstanding Alumnae Receive Awards

At the annual meeting of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association on Saturday, April 4, six alumnae were honored for their outstanding contributions to their communities, professions, churches and to Wesleyan.

Award recipients included Frances Oehmig Collins '47 of Atlanta, GA, Distinguished Service to Church; Betty Turner Corn '47 of Columbus, GA, Distinguished Service to Community; Sandra Deer '62 of Atlanta, GA, Ruth White Fruit '54 of Tucker, GA, and Betsy Chipman Kaplan '48 of Miami, FL, Distinguished Achievement; and Martha Bradford Swann '47 of Macon, Distinguished Service to Wesleyan.

Frances Collins graduated from Wesleyan in 1947 and has been active in The United Methodist Church ever since she joined the church in 1951. A member of St. James United Methodist Church for nearly 20 years, she was elected the first woman chairman of the administrative board at St. James in 1982. Past president of the Fidelity Sunday School class, she currently teaches adult Sunday School. Her numerous positions in the church include church trustee from 1983-85, chairman of the Commission on Missions, chairman of the Worship Committee and editor of the church newsletter. An active supporter of The United Methodist Women (UMW) and its many missions projects, Collins is past president of the UMW and has served as chairman of her circle several times. A sustaining member of the Atlanta Junior League, Collins has served as past president and chairman of the Wesleyan Atlanta Alumnae Club, telethon participant and team captain for the Campaign for Advancement.

Sandra Deer, a 1962 graduate of Wesleyan, is an internationally acclaimed Southern playwright. She wrote her first play, Aunt Nonie's Gift, during the summer of 1979 as an entry in a contest sponsored by The Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. Two more children's plays followed. Commissioned by The Atlanta Children's Theatre, she has written an adaptation of Legend of Sleepy Hollow and Don Quixote, which has toured the southeast. Her first full length play, So Long on Lonely Street, set box office attendance records at the Alliance Theatre in Atlanta where she currently is literary manager. Lonely Street ran in Boston, off-Broadway in New York City and in London. Her newest play is about a psychic and is titled Angry Grace. It opened April 15 at the Alliance. As literary manager, Deer reads and recommends plays for production, travels to see new plays and communicates with agents and other theatre professionals. She joined the Alliance in 1977 as director of public relations and audience development. Deer earned the master's degree at Florida State University.

A lifetime resident of Columbus, GA, Betty Corn is committed to serving her community. A trustee of The Bradley-Turner Foundation, she serves as a board member of The Bradley Center, The Brookstone School and the Columbus Teen Center. She is a Pink Lady at St. Francis Hospital. An art history major at Wesleyan, she continues her interest in art, both as a student and as a member of the Corporate Art Collection Committee for the W.C. Bradley Company and as a member of the Building, Acquisition and Exhibition Committees of the Columbus Museum of Arts and Sciences. A sustaining member of the Junior League, she has served on the Historic Columbus Foundation, The Cancer Society Board, the Review Board of The United Givers and the St. Francis Hospital Auxiliary. She is a member of the Altar Guild of St. Luke United Methodist Church.

Ruth Fruit is an enthusiastic educator who has experience as an elementary teacher, an instructional lead teacher and an elementary school principal. She currently is the principal at Smoke Rise Elementary in DeKalb County. President of the DeKalb Association of Educators, she was named "Teacher of the Year" at Brockett Elementary in 1970. In 1984 she was awarded a life membership in the PTA at Livsey Elementary School. She is an active member of the Georgia Association of Educational Leaders, Georgia Association of Elementary School Principals, National Association of Professional Educators, Professional Association of Georgia Educators, DeKalb Association of Elementary School Principals, DeKalb Administrator's Club, and Delta Kappa Gamma Society. In addition to her responsibilities within the school system, Fruit teaches a Sunday School class for young married couples at First United Methodist Church in Atlanta. For 24 years she was Superintendent of the Children's and Youth Divisions. She serves as president of the Atlanta Wesleyan Alumnae Club.

Betsy Kaplan received the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from Wesleyan in 1948 and has been dedicated to making art and music available to all school children ever since. Through her lobbying efforts, the Florida legislature has declared art and music as basic elementary subjects and she has been instrumental in the adoption of a curriculum richer in art and music offerings in elementary schools in Dade County. A former teacher, Kaplan is chairman of Dade County School Superintendent's Academic Advisory Committee, chairman of Florida PTA legislative priorities, and president of the Dade and Monroe Counties Region of the Florida PTA. She has chaired numerous committees of the Florida PTA.

Her other affiliations cover a wide range of organizations including the Chopin Foundation of the United States, Inc., Zoological Society of Dade County, League of Women Voters, Docent Guild of the Lowe Art Museum; and the DAR. Kaplan was elected to Who's Who and Why of Successful Florida Women 1985 and was named "Lay Educator of the Year 1983" by the Florida International University Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa. She has made a determined effort to make both school personnel and the general public aware of the educational opportunities to be found in art museums, at concerts, operas and dramatic presentations.

Martha Swann serves her alma mater with dedication. She has been a Wesleyan trustee since 1980 and she has served on the Executive, Trustee, Compensation, and Student Affairs Committees and as Assistant Secretary of the Board. She served as chairman of the inaugural dinner for President Robert K. Ackerman. Swann is chairman of the Major Gifts Division for the Macon Area of the Capital Campaign for Advancement, 1985-1988. Prior to her election as a trustee, she served on the Alumnae Board of Managers for three years. She has been a hostess for class reunion parties, class agent for the Loyalty Fund and a volunteer for the Alumnae Loyalty Fund Phonathon. In addition to devoting her time to Wesleyan, she also is active in church and community affairs. A member of Tattnell Square Presbyterian Church, she has served as president of the Women of the Church, director of the Daily Vacation Bible School, chairman of the city-wide School of Religion and Sunday School teacher for college students and young adults. She was a member of the Macon-Bibb County Recreation Commission and served on the Board of Directors of the American Cancer Society.

Frances Bruce Van Horn Named To New Position

Rose Mary McKelvey, Director of Institutional Advancement, has named Frances Van Horn as Director of Campus and Community Events. Mrs. Van Horn has been Wesleyan's Director of Alumnae Affairs for 17 years, serving during the administrations of four presidents.

As Alumnae Director, she instituted the annual Merchant's Festival, semiannual phonathon fundraising campaigns and the Alumnae Link Program for Freshmen. Coordinator of Parent's Club activities for 10 years, she has been listed in Who's Who Of American Women since 1975.

Dear Alumna:

The success of Wesleyan College graduates is impressive and there is no doubt that our alumnae are among our most valuable assets. With the theory in mind that no one knows more about a career than a person who is actually in the profession, and in our efforts to provide Wesleyan students with the best possible career counseling, we are creating an alumnae contact file.

This file, which will list alumnae by profession and geographical location, will be kept in the Career Library and will be available for use only by current Wesleyan students and alumnae. Using this file, a student may contact an alumna to set up an interview to gather information about her chosen career and to ask for advice on how best to get into that field. This will not be a job interview, but an information-gathering session. As a result of this interview, the student will have a better understanding about a profession, gain valuable interview experience and establish an important professional connection.

We are asking for your participation in this new program. The students at Wesleyan will greatly benefit from your experience and knowledge. If you are willing to participate, please complete the attached card and further information will be forthcoming. If you have any immediate questions concerning the program, please contact Karen Andrews at (912) 477-1110, ext. 165.

Thank you for your continued support of Wesleyan College.

Sincerely,

Frances B. Van Horn
Director of Alumnae Affairs

Sincerely,

Karen B. Andrews
Director of Counseling and Placement

Ed. Note: The Class Notes have a few additions this issue. If your class is having a reunion in the next two years, it will be noted directly beneath your class year. Following upcoming reunions you will see the name and address of your Class Newsletter Reporter. With this new program, we'd like you to send all your news — career changes and promotions, family news, even notes to another classmate — to your Class Reporter. They, in turn, will compile all your news into a newsletter that will be sent to you and your classmates from the alumnae office.

If you do not see a Class Reporter listed for your class and you would like to volunteer, please notify the alumnae office. We need someone for every class. Those alumnae who have already received newsletters think it's a great idea!

If your class does not have a Class Reporter, please send your news to the alumnae office.

SPECIAL CLASS NOTE

Evelyn Sewell Rineer Cairo, GA gave Wesleyan a gift of song in honor of its sesquicentennial year.

To Wesleyan — To be sung to tune: "Ancient of Days"

You are the best of all the Alma Maters,
You are the first and fairest of the land,
We praise your goodness, and your truth and beauty,
Honoring highest aims of heart and hand.
We are your children, and we pledge our talents,
We would pass on the gifts we gained from you,
To other seekers in the quest of living,
Striving to grow in mind and service too.
Your mighty past is prologue to the present,
Your current challenge; to become more great;

All that you plan, and learn, and teach, and practice,
Makes but a stairway for the youth who wait.
Build, then, for them, a structure firm and stately,
One that is graceful, solid, strong, and sure;
Build for the Now, and for the future ages,
Steps they can build upon, which will endure.
(Repeat Stanza Two.)
